"There is a time for everything and a time for everything under the sun."

Ecclesiastes 3:1

*"A time to plant, and a time to uproot
the plant.
A time to tear down, and a time to build."*

A little over a year ago the contractors began the preparation for the new science building.

As the academic year continued, students could view the building as it progressed.

Due to the excellent winter weather, the science building was almost a year ahead of schedule.

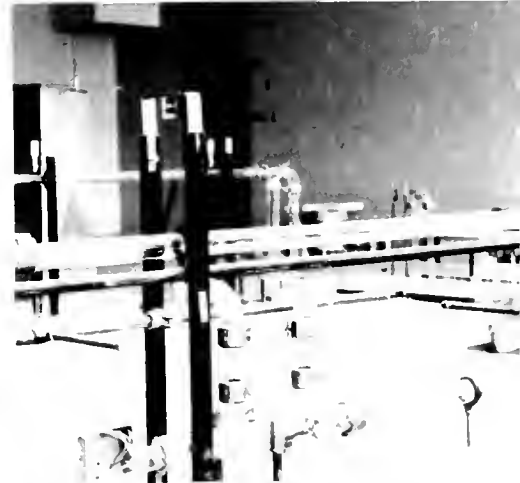

Construction of the science building began with the ground breaking ceremony in April 1988. Production started soon after that and by last year's graduation, much of the frame had been constructed. Having worked steadily throughout the past year, the science building was projected to be a year ahead of schedule.

A tour given by Dr. David Franz showed all those interested, what the interior of the science building looked like. This "Tour de Franz" occurred near the end of April. In some instances the laboratories were almost complete except for desktops.

All in all the excitement of the new science center is still among the college. This building will be the academic home for biology students, chemistry students and biochemistry students. It is believed that a new science center will increase enrollment especially in the sciences. A considerable amount of effort, as well as money has gone into this building which can only help Lycoming move forward with the times.

In late April, Dr. Franz gave a tour of the interior of the science building. Around the time of the tour, and only days before graduation, the contractors began placing the bricks on the outside of the building.

Weeping ... Laughing ... Embracing ... This year at Lycoming had its good and bad moments, as does every year. It had its tears as well as its laughter.

Lycoming lost many of its favorite administration and staff members at the end of the year — President Blumer, Dean JoAnne Day, Dean Patti Burger, Lorraine Little, Betty Beck and Judd Staples, to name a few. Their influence upon Lycoming will remain here long after they leave.

Laughter also filled the air as it always does. Attending football games, the Christmas party and other special events often brought smiles and cheer to the students.

Graduation brought many embraces to students, their families and friends, faculty and many others. Tears were also apparent as well as laughter.

This year had its ups and downs. But the people of Lycoming — students, faculty and staff — made it through with triumphant smiles.

*"A time to weep,
and a time to laugh.
A time to mourn,
and a time to dance.
A time to embrace,
and a time to be far from embraces."*

Left: A graduation moment.

*"A time to seek,
and a time to lose.
A time to keep,
and a time to cast away.
A time to be silent,
and a time to speak.
A time to love,
and a time of peace."*

— Ecclesiastes 3:1-8

Giving the "gift of life," Paul Koester takes time out of his busy schedule to donate blood.

The time spent here at Lycoming is supposed to be the best time of one's life. During the course of the school year there have been times when knowledge was sought and when we lost.

There are many memories that should be kept but others we'd like to forget. For example we treasure our good friends but dread the memory of the 4 a.m. fire alarms.

There have also been times to speak and times for silence. During final exam week, many students found themselves praying for silence. Yet at a basketball game students were found to be quite willing to speak their views.

Lastly, many students found a love for something or someone. And the wish for peace still remains in many hearts.

There is a time for silence and a time to speak — however, one should not speak moments before an exam.

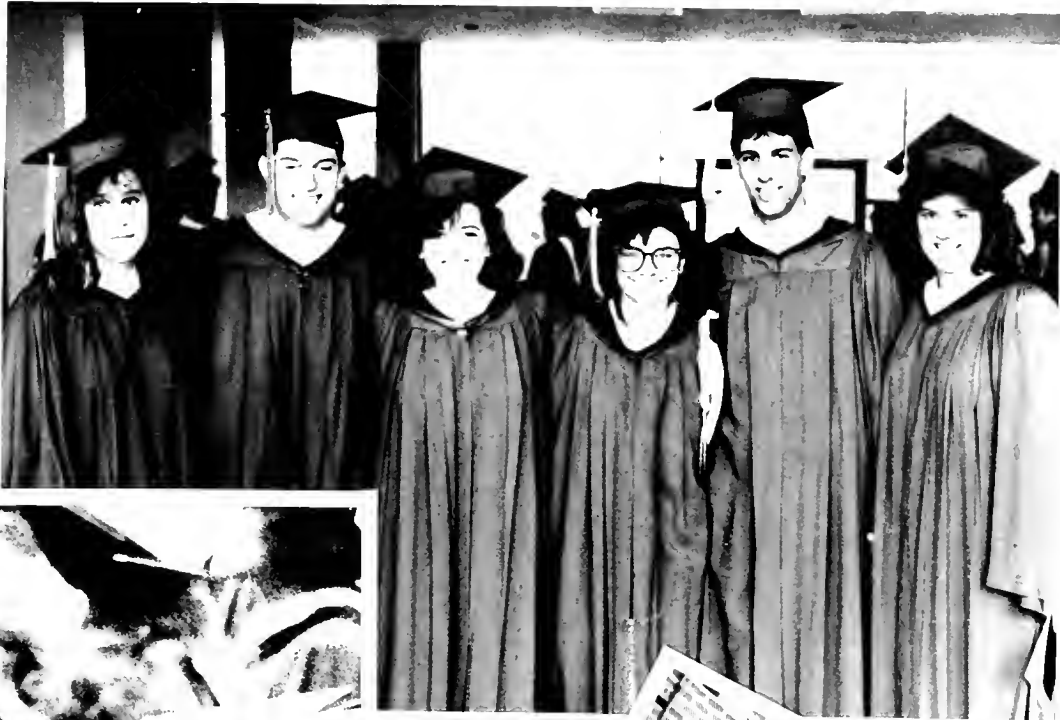

Seniors

Freshmen. Sophomores.
Juniors. finally SENIORS!
Four years of fun, tears, laughter. Decisions made of majors, of classes and much more. An experience at Lycoming that many will never forget. It is time to move onward.

These years have been a learning experience in more ways than one.

Amanda L. Gates

Amanda L. Gates
Senior Class President

We've been faced with a lot of changes and challenges in the last four years, and I think we've come out alright. These years have been a learning experience in more ways than one. We learned to live with the alcohol policy and the plus/minus grading system. We welcomed a new dean, Michael O'Brien, whose school spirit is as big as the effort he has put forth to the students. Remember everything you experienced in your college years. The good times and the bad times.

God Bless, love and success to you all. We are special... we're the Class of 1989.

"Of course there were some trying times . . . but that was to be expected. The good times far outweighed the bad in every respect."

Seth B. Burch

What was it like having your father as your coach?

Playing basketball for my father was one of the greatest experiences of my life. It was one that I will never forget, or trade for anything in the world. Of course there were some trying times throughout my four years at Lycoming, but that was to be expected. The good times far outweighed the bad in every respect.

Playing for my father was everything I hoped for. It allowed me to know a side of him I had never known before. He's the best coach I've ever played for, and the only regret I'll ever have is that I could only play for him for four years.

Looking back over the last four years, what is your favorite football memory?

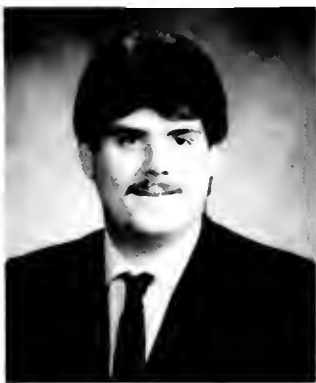

Frank L. Girardi, Jr.

I guess my favorite football memory happened in my freshman year. My older brother Jerry went to Lycoming and was a senior when I was a freshman.

That year was great — having both my brother and me playing ball together. And my dad was the coach — it was great. It was also the only year since I've been at Lyco that we won the MAC conference for football.

What accomplishments has SALC made during the past year?

Over the past year I feel the Student Association has made many accomplishments. The student survey, organized, distributed and analyzed by SALC has developed into a footstool for the Administration and SALC to work together and respond to student raised issues. We anticipate the continuation of the developing communication between students and the Administration.

Best of luck to the Senior Class.

This year's Senior Section has noted active leaders in the senior class but, it would not be complete without mention of valedictorian Ben Landon. These seniors, as well as the rest of this diverse class, have offered the college community a richness and completeness that will be missed. Their dedication and commitment to Lycoming must be further continued by its following classes: 1990, 1991, 1992. Needless to say, these classes have a tough act to follow.

But as Lycoming develops and moves with the rapidly changing times, the students will continue to give this college its character and help the college grow.

We thank the Class of 1989 for its dedication and support and wish its members all the luck and happiness they deserve.

Student Life

Life at Lycoming . . .
studying . . . activities . . .
time spent with friends. Here at "Camp Lyco" there are many other things to keep the student involved. When they're not studying, students can be found on the Quad, playing intramural sports, attending concerts, participating in intercollegiate sports, or working out in the gym.
Time spent at Lycoming creates many memories for

The "Alumni Quilt of Memories" was presented to the College at the 1988 homecoming festivities held the weekend of September 30-31. Another highlight of the weekend was the celebration of the 20th anniversary of the Arena Theatre with a brunch in the theatre lobby, followed by a special program.

Selection of the Homecoming Queen was slightly different than in the past. Eight senior women were nominated as candidates with Deborah Burkland selected by vote of the student body.

The stands of College Field were full as alumni, students and friends cheered the Warriors on to a victory over Lebanon Valley. Other sporting events included a soccer match with the alumni team, hockey and cross country matches, and the induction of a new class into the Lycoming Sports Hall of Fame.

All in all, Homecoming '88 will remain a special memory for those students and alumni who participated.

There is an old platitude which states — you get what you put into it. In the case of education, a student achieves only if he puts in the effort. Academics at Lycoming have always been the foremost responsibility of the faculty, staff and students. Every year the college expands its curriculum to help its students prepare for the future. Lycoming's programs challenge and stimulate its students to achieve their goals, making everyone put in his best effort.

Ho! Ho! Ho! December was the month and the Christmas spirit was upon the Lycoming College campus. On the fourth, a Christmas Extravaganza was in full swing. Faculty and staff, their children, and students all came out to the Wertz Student Center to eat holiday goodies and to sing traditional Christmas carols. Santa's reindeer also flew in for a visit. On a more serious note, the Christmas candlelight service also brought the entire campus community together to celebrate the religious aspect of the season. The choir and the band performed majestically during the service. Each of these activities enabled the students to realize that Christmas was not just for children but for college students as well.

What do you do when you're not in class, in the library or in Pennington Lounge? Students often wander up to the gym for their daily workouts. Others find the game room in Wertz Student Center to be a good place to take a study break. Still others feel spending time with friends is most important.

Lastly, intramural sports plays an important part in a student's life. All of these activities and many others, give the student a relaxing and often less stressful break from studying.

Activities! Fun! and Laughter! Lycoming offered all of this, but students had to know where to look. All of these things centered in the realm of the Campus Activities Board and the Office of Student Activities.

In addition to planning two major concerts this year, CAB and Student Activities did much more. They provided discount tickets for the UA movies, brought other live entertainment to campus, and organized such events as the Campus Carnival. A successful new program initiated by the Office of Student Activities was the feature film program on Saturday evenings.

There were many types of extra-curricular activities available to students. Greeks, academic organizations, sports and entertainment events were some of the options available.

Greek organizations offered comradeship to their members with the additional goal of improving the entire community. Academic organizations enabled students to learn more about their majors or career choices.

Sports related events were also very popular not only for participants, but for spectators, too.

In addition to making a difference in the college, students learn many life skills through participation in activities.

Lanade Gymnasium rocked with music this year. The major concert of fall semester was Robert Palmer with his special guest James Reyne. The gym was packed with fans who enjoyed not only the music but spectacular special effects as well. Spring semester brought Kansas/Night Ranger to the campus. Opening smiles to many as they brought their old and new stuff. Kansas, with marvelous lighting, sang both their old favorites such as "Dust in the Wind" and "Carry on Wayward Son". All in all, 88-89 was a very musical year.

It was a good year or it was a bad year, depending on your view on life. In the U.S. Presidential election the Democrats fielded Michael Dukakis and Lloyd Bentsen against Republican vice-president George Bush and Dan Quayle.

Alaska hit the newspapers several times during the school term. Early in the year, the teamwork of American and Russian rescuers saved two whales who were stuck in the ice. Later in the year, Alaska grabbed headlines with record low temperatures of -68 . Finally in April, an oil tanker ran aground spilling millions of gallons of oil near Valdez.

The Summer Olympics were held in Seoul, South Korea. American stars included diver Greg Louganis, sprinter Carl Lewis, swimmer Matt Biondi, and female track and field sensation Florence Griffith-Joyner.

In mid-April the country was devastated by news of an explosion in one of the gun turrets aboard the USS Iowa, which killed 47 sailors. As the USS Iowa pulled into port in Norfolk, Va., friends and family greeted the survivors and mourned those who died. President Bush spoke at the memorial service for those who died at sea.

All in all, as with many previous years, it was a time of laughter and of tears, a time of surprise and of anguish.

Organizations

Activities . . . Adventure . . . Fun. Extracurricular activities can be found throughout the campus. Be it a Greek organization, an academic or governance one, or an organization of special interest, all available to the students. However one wishes to view it — it's "time out for fun!"

Lycoming College offers a variety of extra-curricular clubs for all students — both Greeks and independents, commuters and residents. Most students join an organization in order to get some enjoyment out of college life and also as relaxation from their studies. There is no organization that is better than another — it all depends on what one is looking for. The same goes for the Greeks on campus. Each fraternity or sorority organization offers something a little different.

To further make the point that one organization is not better than another, the staff decided to place all organizations in an alphabetical order. There are a few that are slightly out of order, but this is due to the layouts of this section. This concept was also used to show that Greeks are not separate from organizations, but that they are a part of the same system. The only difference is that they are run a little differently. Throughout this page and others like it, one will see Greeks interacting with Non-Greeks, Greeks with Greeks, and Non-

Greeks with Non-Greeks. Everyone needs to work together in order to be able to create a community.

Lastly, if any organizations were forgotten, the staff apologizes for the omission. If any organization feels that it was inaccurately depicted, don't hesitate to say so. However, there is just one comment the staff would like to make clear. A great effort was made to create an equality among all organizations, but in some cases there was little response from the group leaders. If the Arrow has made any errors in this section or has offended anyone in any manner, the staff does apologize.

WRLC

The voice of Lycoming College grew stronger during the 1988-89 academic year as radio station WRLC-FM increased its staff and variety of programming. The student-run, non-commercial radio station broadcasted from noon to midnight every day during the school year. While the station followed an album oriented rock format with a progressive flair, many types of music were heard on 91.7 FM. Shows focusing on alternative music, progressive music, new music, classical, jazz, oldies, dance music, classic rock, reggae, and children's tunes were heard weekly.

Besides music, many sporting events were aired on WRLC. The sports department raised over $5,000 in underwriting grants which allowed the station to broadcast all Lycoming football games and an all-time high 30 men's and women's basketball contests.

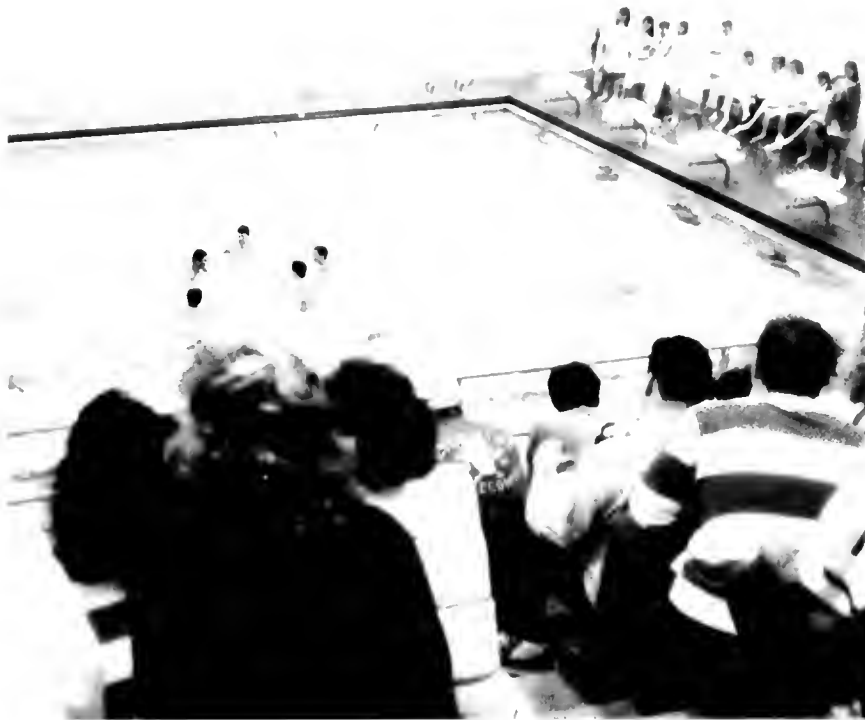

In the information area, the station's staff developed many shows including Lycoming Line and Open Mic which offered commentary and a close look at a local issue or a national topic utilizing the opinions of people connected with Lycoming College. The mass communication department provided students to do daily newscasts on WRLC, and the broadcast journalism class produced a weekly show during the spring semester called Campus Week which examined issues facing Lycoming.

Station manager and sports director Tom Speicher headed up the executive staff which included Kurt Weirich, program director, Keith Barrows, music director, Steve Sant, news director, Mark Klein, librarian, Jay Tanenbaum, technical director, and Jen Johnson, secretary.

S.H.A.R.E.

S.H.A.R.E. — Students having a REAL experience. This program provided Lycoming College students the experience that might help them in their future career plans. Usually a six week program, students observed and performed tasks assigned by their SHARE sponsor. The time spent with a particular sponsor often gave the student the opportunity to apply classroom theories to their "job". Participating in a SHARE program gave each student a "taste" of the business world. SHARE placements were found at real estate offices, law firms, hospitals, doctor's offices and banks to name a few.

This year, Wayne Oplinger was the program's student coordinator. He was responsible for informing the students of their expected duties in their placement. He was also in charge of making sure that everything went smoothly — including the SHARE luncheon for students and sponsors.

If interested in the SHARE program — or to get more information, contact Mrs. Cowles at the Career Development Center. Mrs. Cowles is in charge of finding the appropriate sponsors for each students request.

Sports

Sporting events were a major factor at Lycoming. Basketball, football, intramurals, and a variety of other sports brought students, faculty and friends to the stands to cheer on the home team. For many games that weren't on the home front, WRLC broadcast the action. These teams did their best whether they won or lost and that's what's important.

Football

It was a tale of two seasons for the 1988 edition of the Lycoming College Warriors. After an excellent 4-0 start, Lycoming split its final six games and finished with more than two losses for the first time since 1981.

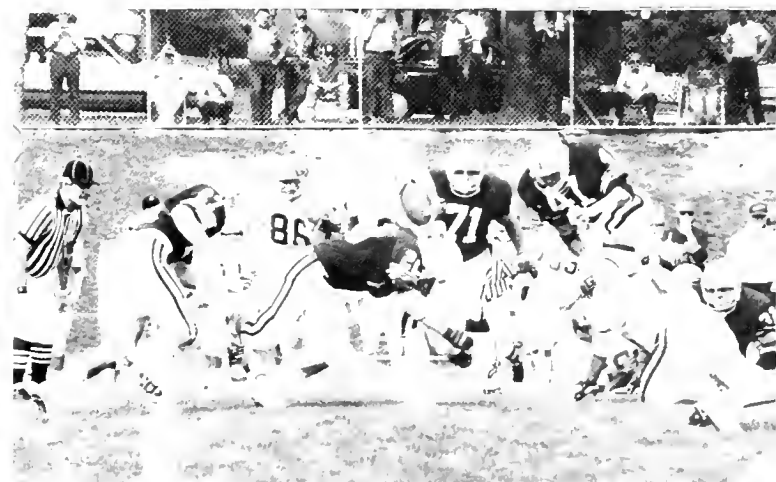

Coach Frank Girardi's Warriors were extremely impressive the first month of the season and gave the appearance of a team poised to make a run at the Middle Atlantic Conference championship. Victories over Kean, Upsala, Delaware Valley and Lebanon Valley by a combined score of 124-23 gave the Warriors a perfect record going into a critical battle at Widener.

The contest against the Pioneers was the hinge on which Lycoming's season turned for the worse. After a sluggish first half, the Warriors were down 10-3. However, Lycoming took the second half kickoff and confidently drove to inside the Widener one-yard line. But the Warriors fumbled the ball away to their rivals and didn't seriously threaten again until late in the game when Widener had its 17-5 victory secured.

The Warriors bounced back the next week when a strong second-half running game led Lycoming to a 20-10 victory over Juniata. However, the Warriors were knocked out of the championship race the following week when the Moravian Greyhounds outplayed Lycoming by a 17-6 count at College Field.

Lycoming got back on the winning track with a 23-0 win over the lowly Albright Lions in week seven but came out on the short end of the same score a week later against Susquehanna. Three long touchdown passes propelled the Crusaders in the game played in a constant downpour as Susquehanna handed Lycoming its first shutout in seven years.

However, the campaign for the Warriors ended on a winning note as the squad trounced Wilkes 47-14 in the season's final week to finish the year with a 7-3 overall record and a 5-3 mark in the conference.

Despite the three defeats, many positive signs emerged for the Warriors. The team placed in the books its 14th consecutive winning season, the defensive unit finished second nationally in Division III in rushing and

Soccer

The Lycoming soccer team found it tough going in the rugged Middle Atlantic Conference in 1988 as the squad posted its third consecutive losing season with a 2-10-1 overall record and 0-5-1 mark in the MAC.

Despite the record, some positive moments came out of the campaign. Lycoming garnered victories over Shepherd and Baptist Bible and came close in four other games in which the Warriors lost by a goal.

Leading the way for Scott McNeill's team was Courtney Walters with a team-high nine goals. Walters' excellent season earned him a spot on the MAC Northern Division-West League All-Star team. The senior finished his fine career with 26 goals and 14 assists.

Also contributing to the Warriors' offensives were Ted Roundy and Tom O'Keefe with three goals each. Team captain Gary Malaby and Steve Gay each added a goal while Gregg Sabbak and Joe Hales combined for three assists.

A lack of scoring punch was the chief cause of the field hockey team's woes in 1988. Janis Arp's squad scored just 12 goals in compiling a 2-12-2 overall record and an 0-4-1 slate in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Lycoming averaged 13.9 shots a match while the Lady Warriors' opponents managed over 19 shots a contest. The Lady Warriors were blanked nine times, including two double-overtime scoreless ties against Wilkes and the Susquehanna Valley Club.

However, there were bright spots for the Lady Warriors. Led by the senior leadership of captains Deb Burkland and Toni Ioppolo, the team picked up wins over Dickinson and Marywood and fell just a goal short in five other contests.

Ann Marie Reppert led the team in scoring with three goals while Ioppolo, who was named to the MAC Northern Division-West League All-Star team, and Chris Gulden chipped in with two goals each.

Amy Buffenmeyer, Kim Kauffman, Jolie Labour, Heidi Meaken and Jeanene Perry all contributed one goal each for the Lady Warriors while goalie Bonnie McClean was solid in the nets by making 96 saves on the season.

The start of a long journey.

Under the direction of Jim Burget, the Lycoming cross country program continued to strive for excellence in 1988. The women's team was dominated by individual efforts while the men's squad compiled the college's best ever record in the sport with a 6-2 slate.

The trio of David Harvey, David Shearman, and Chad Lohman led the charge all season for the men's team. Harvey posted three first-place finishes in dual meets and was Lycoming's top finisher at the Middle Atlantic Conference championships with a 53rd-place showing.

Shearman was one of the top three Lycoming finishers on eight occasions while Lohman turned the trick six times. Lohman was Lycoming's top finisher in the Susquehanna Invitational, and Shearman finished right behind Harvey in 54th place at the MAC championships.

Although the women's team finished with a 1-3 record, some members of the squad put together solid seasons. The performance of Lisa Rotunda led the way for the Lady Warriors. Rotunda was the squad's top finisher in the team's six meets including a team-high 74-place finish at the MAC championships. Also chipping in with fine campaigns were Eileen Gallagher and Sonja Burkhalter.

The Lady Warriors managed to field a complete team for the MAC championships and ended up 16th out of 18 squads with 452 points.

Trainers

The Lycoming College Cheerleaders were heard at every football game. Their constant support for the team got the crowd involved in cheering for the home team, and made College Field a favorite stadium for the football Warriors.

Student athletic trainers have been used at Lycoming for only the last ten years. The apprenticeship program was started in 1979, with the realization that it was important to help all athletes with any type of injury. Student trainers received no credit for this program but could qualify for certification by taking the National Athletic Trainers Association exam. The student trainers were supervised by Dan Petra, a certified athletic trainer.

Wrestling

The 1988-89 wrestling season was another successful one for head coach Budd Whitehill and his grapplers. Although the team couldn't defend its conference title, the squad finished with the program's best dual-match record.

The Warriors went 18-4 in dual matches during the regular season to give Whitehill a 328-155-5 record in 32 years as Lycoming's only wrestling coach. Included in those wins were five victories over Division I opponents including James Madison and Hofstra.

On the other hand, three of Lycoming's four defeats came at the hands of Division I teams as Harvard, Princeton, and Bucknell all pinned losses on the Warriors.

Leading the charge for the Warriors was 177-pounder Bryan Neidigh. The junior finished with a 24-5 record including a first-place finish at the MAC championships. Neidigh was the team's lone MAC champion and finished 1-2 at the Division III National Tournament.

Juniors Matt Miller and Troy Gardner also had excellent seasons for the Warriors. At 142-pounds, Miller finished 23-7-2 and third in his weight class at the MAC tourney. The 158-pound Gardner produced a 23-6-2 campaign and finished fourth at the conference tournament.

Pete Solomon, Kim Schooley, and Scott Rosas also chipped in with fine seasons as the trio combined for a 47-12-1 slate. Solomon, at 134-pounds, and Rosas, at 126 pounds both finished second in their weight classes at the MAC tourney. The 150-pound Schooley finished sixth at the conference tournament.

A big improvement in the women's swimming team and two hard-working members of the men's squad highlighted head coach Janis Arp's third season.

The women, who were a combined 3-21 the previous two years, came away with a 5-6 overall record and a 3-4 MAC mark. Junior Amy Cunniffe and freshman Linda Goodliffe were the main weapons for the Lady Warriors.

Cunniffe led the teams with 22 first-place showings while Goodliffe finished first 18 times. Goodliffe also established a Lycoming record in the 1,650 freestyle with a time of 10:02.92. The likes of Ellen Nichols, Jennifer Secor, Liz Snowman, Julie Makatche, Eileen Gallagher, and Susan Vilello also contributed for the Lady Warriors.

For their superior efforts, Goodliffe and Cunniffe along with David Harvey of the men's team were named tri-winners of the Mort Rauff Award for swimming excellence.

Harvey and Mike Maccione were the only full-time members of the men's squad which finished 1-7 overall and 1-6 in the MAC. Harvey finished first 15 times and came in second on three occasions for the Warriors. Maccione posted five first-place, seven second-place and 11 third place showings for the squad.

The Lady Warriors followed up their most successful season with a solid 1988-89 campaign. Under first-year head coach Jim Orr, the Lady Warriors compiled a 16-7 overall record and a 6-4 slate in the MAC.

Lycoming's conference record left the Lady Warriors out of the MAC playoffs, but the team gave Orr several reasons to be optimistic because the squad's main weapons are expected back next year.

The team's main scoring weapon was sophomore Adrienne Aiken. The forward netted a team-record 428 points with an 18.6 per-game average. Aiken also led the team in rebounding with 9.9 boards a contest.

Junior point guard Kim Wood also put together an excellent season. Wood led the team in assists and steals and was second on the squad in scoring with a 15.7 per-game average. Wood's 175 assists on the season broke her previous Lycoming record and placed her fifth nationally in Division III.

Another force for the Warriors was freshman center Annette Bieber. After a slow start, Bieber solidified her game and ended up with 214 rebounds, 61 blocks, and 145 points.

Also contributing points were guards Lonna Zook, Jill Rice, and forward Kristin Friel. Rice scored at an 8.8 clip mostly coming off the bench while Zook and Friel, who both normally started, combined for 400 points.

Although the team couldn't duplicate the previous seasons' trip to the national tournament, the squad's 16-7 record allowed the program to claim back-to-back winning seasons for the first time.

Lycoming's 37 victories over the past two seasons represented more wins than the Lady Warriors had the previous six campaigns combined. And with a powerful arsenal expected back next year, Orr will be looking to add more laurels to the program's recent turnaround.

The 1988-89 Lycoming men's basketball season was full of success stories. However, there was just one negative attached to the season — the team didn't make the playoffs.

The Warriors finished 17-8 on the campaign which represented the team's best record since the 1984-85 season when Lycoming ventured into the national playoffs. Lycoming's overall record was also the best in the MAC's Northern Division at the end of the regular season.

But Lycoming's 10-6 MAC slate was only good enough for third place in the MAC Northwest Section and kept the squad out of post-season play. Despite not making the playoffs, some Warriors gave head coach Clarence "Dutch" Burch many happy moments in his 27th year at Lycoming.

Guard Jeff Jones averaged 20 points a game and became the program's eighth all-time leading scorer with 1,326 career points. Jones was also a first team All-MAC performer, a Kodak Region II All-American, and finished fifth in Division III by shooting 88.5% from the free-throw line.

Forward Mel Allen also had an excellent season by averaging 19.2 points a game. He was twice MAC Northern Division Player of the Week and was a second team All-MAC performer.

Forward Doug Fealtman also gained post-season honors when he was named a GTE District II Academic All-American.

With an all-underclassmen team expected for next season, the Warriors will have a tough time replacing the likes of Jones, Allen, Fealtman, and Burch and face an uphill climb in matching this season's fine record.

and Field

Individual performances on both the men's and women's teams highlighted the 1989 track and field season at Lycoming. Neither squad won a match but some performers gave second-year head coach Steve Wiser reason to smile.

The men's team, which finished 0-6, was led by John Greenfield. The freshman placed in the high jump, triple jump, 110 high hurdles and 400 intermediate hurdles in every match. His best overall performance was four second-place finishes in all those events against Juniata.

Also contributing were the likes of Sean Hoover and Nick Barbieri. Hoover placed twice in the long jump and 100 meters including wins in both events against Juniata. Barbieri competed in the long, high and triple jumps for the Warriors.

Against the Indians, Barbieri finished third in all three events.

The 0-6 women's team was led by Annette Bieber. The freshman picked up two wins in the shot put and placed three times in the discus. Bieber's throw of 30'5" in the shot put in a meet against Dickinson and Lebanon Valley qualified her for the MAC championships.

Mindy Sollenberger also did very well for the Lady Warriors. With a time of 2:44.8 in the 800 meters and 5:39.4 in the 1,500 meters, Sollenberger established two Lycoming records against Juniata.

The Lycoming tennis teams suffered through a tough spring as the squads combined for a 2-13 record. The women's team went winless while the men's squad came on late in the season to chalk up a few victories.

The men, coached by Joe Mark, compiled a 2-6 overall record and a 2-3 MAC slate. The squad's two wins came in close 5-4 decisions over Wilkes and Juniata. The men also put together a decent effort in losses to Elizabethtown and Lock Haven.

Matt Whelan and Bill Nichols led the Warriors in singles play as both players compiled 4-4 records. Whelan and Nichols also managed a 4-4 slate as a doubles team. The duo of Kirk Bower and Ron Mendler also played well for the Warriors with a 3-4 mark in doubles competition.

The women's team finished with an 0-7 overall record and an 0-6 mark in MAC play. Deb Holmes' squad was whitewashed five times but did manage to get on the scoreboard in losses to Wilkes and Elizabethtown.

The Lady Warriors won four matches on the season. Gretche Crowley, Chris McKenna and Margaux Rendzia each won a single match while the duo of McKenna and Suzanne Frangione had a doubles victory.

Coach Joe Mark, Kirk Bower, Ron Mendler, Luan Nguyen, Matt Whelan, Bill Nichols, Justin Fochima

While the 1989 golf team didn't put together a stellar record, individual linkers had solid campaigns for head coach Gene Hendersched.

Bill Beck and Chris Landmesser led the team which finished ninth out of ten squads in the Susquehanna Invitational, won a dual match against Ursinus, and lost three other dual and two triangular matches.

During the seven-round regular season both Landmesser and Beck averaged scores of 87. Beck's best performance was a round of 81 against Juniata, and Landmesser was the team's medalist in its final regular season match against Lock Haven with an 80.

The trio of Larry Moon, Curt Keiser, and Dave Bonsick also played very well for Lycoming. Moon was Lycoming's medalist early in the season against Ursinus and Kings with scores of 83 and 79. After struggling in the middle of the campaign, Moon finished the regular season with back-to-back 81's.

Keiser and Bonsick both came on late in the season for Lycoming. Keiser shot in the 90's for the squad's first five matches but ended the year with rounds in the 80's against Juniata and Lock Haven. After limited action for much of the season, Bonsick also played well against Lock Haven and Juniata with scores in the 80's.

Registrar Robert Checca and Dr. Judy Pottmeyer present certificates to Gold Key Honorees.

Honors Convocation 1989 was held in Clarke Chapel the evening of April 11, 1989 with Dean Michael O'Brien presiding. This event honored students of all classes for both their academic and extra-curricular achievements.

The highlight of the evening was the announcement of the Chieftain Award winner for 1989, Renee D. Adams, by President Frederick Blumer. The award is given to "the senior who has contributed the most to Lycoming College through support of school activities; who has exhibited outstanding constructive leadership qualities; who has evidenced a good moral code; and whose academic rank is in the upper-half of the class." Other candidates for the honor were Amanda Gates, Pamela Schmouder, Thomas Speicher and Amy Womelsdorf.

The major athletic accolades, the Pocahontas and Tomahawk Awards, went to Toni Ioppolo and Jeff Jones respectively. The Sol "Woody" Wolfe Award given to the junior athlete showing the most improvement in intercollegiate competition was shared by Jill Rice and Troy Gardner. Allen Mills and Deborah Schroeder were honored as Intramural Athletes of the Year.

Kurt Weirich and Eileen Gallagher shared the Jack C. Buckle Award given to a junior for unusual contributions to campus life through leadership in student activities. For "academic excellence and service to the college and the community" Patricia Bloss was awarded the Ada Remley Scholarship.

Gallagher and Weirich joined Amy Cunniffe, Cheryl Fisher, Buffy Huffaker, Chad Lohman and Aimee McNelis in being named to the Iruska Honor Society.

Dean Michael O'Brien was honored with the Makisu Award presented by SALC for outstanding service to the college community beyond the realm of one's obligation to the College.

Dean Van Marter congratulates Patricia Bloss on receiving the Ada Remly Scholarship.

Right: James Conrad receives the Wall Street Journal Award for high academic performance and outstanding service to the Business Department from Dr. Bruce Weaver.

Dr. Fred Thayer presented the Walter G. McIver Award to Benjamin Landon and the Civic Choir Award to Maureen Griffith. Joseph Calderon received the John A. Streeter Memorial Award in Music.

Amy Womelsdorf and Michael Holland were named recipients of the Ethel McDonald Pax Christi Award. Service to Lycoming Awards, for unselfish service and contribution to student life by a senior during his/her college career, were presented to Womelsdorf, Holland, Rik Niklaus, John Cruickshank, Wayne Oplinger, Christina Kovaleski, Fred Lighty, and the other four Chieftain nominees.

The Phil G. Gillette Prizes in Foreign Languages went to Jason Moyer for outstanding work in German, Melissa Harde for French, and Kovaleski for Spanish. Monica Cawley received the Arena Theatre Performance Award.

Kimberly DeWitt and Penny Moore shared the Psi Chi Service Award for contributions to the Psychology Department, while Donna Brown received the Junior Book Award for political science. The Senior Scholarship Prize in History went to Keith Martyn. Both the Ferree Award and the Sadler Prize for excellence in mathematics were given to James Williams.

Melissa Walters received the Biology Service Award and Joy Womelsdorf received both the Freshman Biology and CRC Freshman Chemistry Awards. Other chemistry awards included the A.C.S. Outstanding Senior Chemistry Major to Michael Justice and the A.I.C. Student Honor Award to Melody Griese.

Dr. Judith Pottmeyer presented the Lycoming Scholar Award to Lisa Attig for her outstanding contributions to and participation in the Lycoming Scholar Program.

Blue Key or Gold Key honors were given to freshmen who achieved academic excellence the first semester of their college career. Gold Key recipients include Amy Atkinson, Kimberly Beck, Carolyn Blatchley, Kerry Bloom, Tamme Bodai, Doris Cascino, Animatu N'Boye Deen-Kargbo, Elizabeth Evans, Katherine Vickery-Fowler Gleason, Angela Harleman, Lori Hogue, Erin Hursen, Beth Lawrence, Kelley McCoy, Kerry Meehan, Sandra Scott, Kristin Spengler, Susan Vilello, and Joy Womelsdorf.

Receiving Blue Key honors were Richard Anderson, Kevin Brobson, Eric Doyle, James Frommer, Robert Guellich, Larry Kipp, Jeffrey Mahalik, Kenneth Mayer, Jeffrey Michaels, Jason Moyer, Shane Riddell, James Rothwell, Gerald Sechleer, Rajan Thampi, and John Whelan.

Iruska inductees, Amy Cunniffe, Cheryl Fisher, Eileen Gallagher, Buffy Huffaker, Chad Lohman, Aimee McNelis and Kurt Weirich, receive certificates from Mrs. Debbie Weaver.

Renee Adams receives congratulations from Dr. Blumer after being named Chieftain for 1989.

Commencement Weekend. It was a time of laughter and a time of tears. Hours were spent reminiscing over the past four years. People could be heard laughing all over campus. Discussions of what was to happen after graduation were also apparent. Job opportunities, graduate school, and just "hanging" out were among the familiar answers.

On Saturday, as the seniors went to graduation practice, the chattering was all around. Excitement was in the air. Soon it would be all over. After graduation practice the senior class held a picnic outside Lamade Gymnasium. As "The Big Chill" soundtrack played, students enjoyed their picnic — once again discussing the past, the present and their futures.

Later that afternoon, the Nursing Class of '89 received their nursing pins. During the ceremony, Dr. Pagana and the student speaker, Pam Schmoyer, spoke. As each graduating nurse received her pin a passage she wrote was read. Remembering what brought them to Lycoming, their families, and friends brought pride and joy to all present.

Shortly after the pinning ceremony, activity moved to the cafeteria for the Academic Awards Banquet. Family and friends were present as seniors received awards honoring the hard work and effort they put forth during their stay at Lycoming.

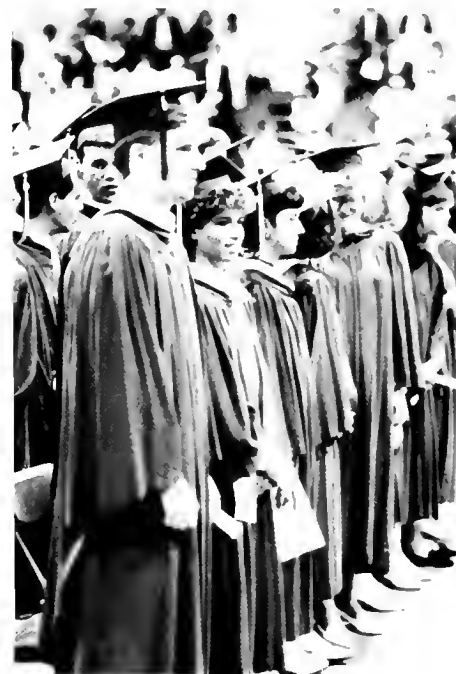

The Lycoming College Choir presented their traditional concert in the early evening. Parents, faculty, staff, administration and friends all gathered in Clarke Chapel to hear the wondrous tour choir.

The Senior Party in Wertz Student Center concluded Saturday's activities. Burchfield Lounge was used as the "dance space" while Jack's Corner and the Game Room had tables with the food. This atmosphere enabled students and families to talk or to dance. There was an anticipation in the air as seniors "partied" at Lycoming for the last time — as students.

Nancy Thornton and Jodi Richart sing during the Baccalaureate Service.

Gary Konow, Patti Sue Lockwood and Pamela Schmoyer all rise for the recessional at Baccalaureate.

Graduation day dawned windy, wet and cold. Activities started off early with the ROTC Commissioning Ceremony. Susan Bensinger and Joseph Bower were sworn in as Second Lieutenants in the U.S. Army. As such they were the flag bearers for the Commencement ceremony.

The traditional Baccalaureate Service was held in a transformed gymnasium. Students were in awe as Bishop Felton May delivered the Baccalaureate message. Many seniors felt this was very touching since Bishop May had been the speaker at their Freshman Convocation which opened their college careers.

Late in the morning it was decided to hold Commencement indoors due to the miserable weather. Prior to graduation the Lycoming College Band performed in Lamade Gymnasium. As the band played, the tension built for graduation was at hand — the moment every senior was waiting for.

Ellen Nichols, Jen Piper and Lysa Judson smile for the camera prior to the Commencement ceremony.

Shay Kerns-Barr reflects on her stay at Lycoming. Ms. Kerns-Barr returned to Lyco after a ten year absence.

 Far left: Kirk Bower receives his degree in Political Science and English.
 Left: Ronald Bubb and Patricia Alcock, along with the rest of the Bachelor of Arts students, become graduates.

Chieftain award winner Renee Adams graduates cum laude.

Benjamin Seth Akrong is the first student to receive the Bachelor of Fine Arts in Sculpture degree.

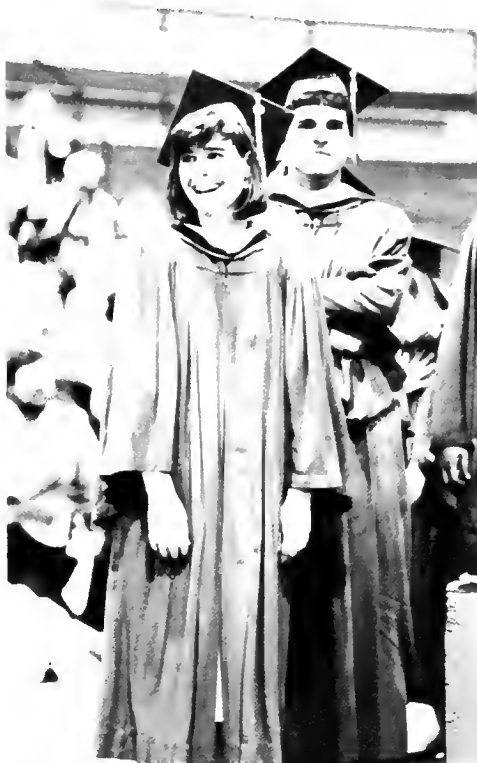

Seniors are all smiles as the day begins with the Baccalaureate service.

Below: As the fire alarm goes off, Kirsten Johnson wonders if she'll receive her diploma.

The ceremony opened with the traditional procession followed by the conferring of honorary degrees on Bishop Felton May and David Sykes. A new award for teaching excellence was presented to Dr. Kathleen Pagana.

And then the moment had arrived!! As the students receiving the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, and Bachelor of Science in Nursing degrees were recognized and the degrees were conferred, the tension was at its highest.

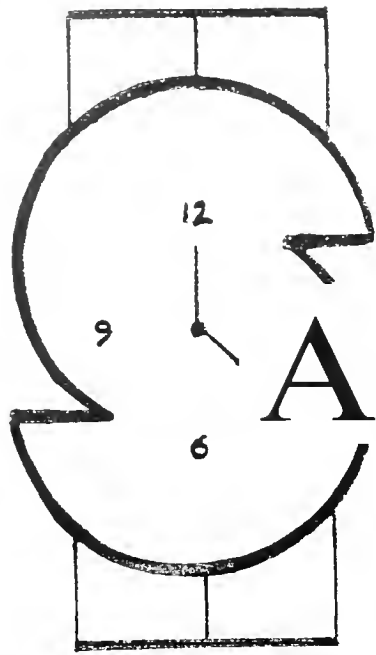

As each student received his or her diploma, a weight seemed to have been lifted. To add to the excitement, the fire alarm sounded in the middle of things interrupting the solemnity of the occasion.

President Blumer spoke for a few moments. Since this was his last year at Lycoming, he felt a certain bond with the Class of 1989. He commented on the similarity of leaving Lycoming and being able to fly. If the members of the Class of 1989 do as well as is anticipated, they will all be soaring like eagles within a matter of time.

Above: All eyes are upon Bishop May as he delivers his Baccalaureate sermon.
Right: Monica Cawley leaves Lycoming, as do many students who graduated, with just one more question . . . What now?

*Congratulations to the Lycoming College Graduates,
Class of 1989.*

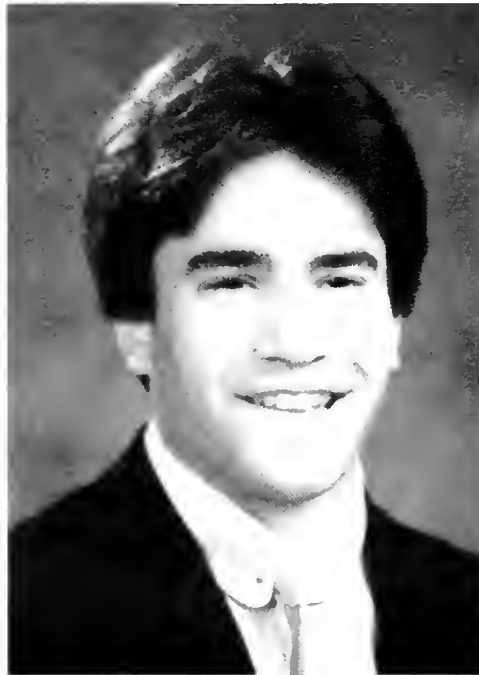

My daughter E. Dawn (Fanning) Flick '87 will graduate this year from Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science with honors due to the outstanding science background given to her at Lycoming College. My youngest daughter, Andrea Assaf, will have the benefit of the new Science Building. Hopefully she will begin at Lycoming College in 1991.

An Open Letter To The Class of 1989:

Congratulations upon your accomplishments - you are now the proud possessors of a Liberal Arts and Sciences Education.

It is important to note that the services of Lycoming College do not end after you have been graduated. Alumni are welcome to make use of programs offered by the Career Development Center and the Alumni Office.

The Career Development Center will continue to send you information on job opportunities until you find meaningful employment. We do ask that you notify the Career Development Center after you have obtained a position so that we may direct our efforts towards those who are still job hunting.

Just as we hope to keep you informed of new developments on campus, through our Alumni Office and Career Development Center mailings, we hope that you will do the same for us. It is imperative that we have a current mailing address in our files! If you change your residence, place of employment, or complete additional schooling, may we be the first to know?

In addition, we ask that you help your alma mater by informing us of any job openings in your place of employment so that we might assist future graduates in their job hunt. Please notify us also about internship and summer employment opportunities. Lycoming alumni support the college in a variety of ways. We look forward to working with you in the future.

*Our time was well spent here.
 Memories were made and will be kept.
 And, as we close the book on yet another year at Lycoming,
 Let us remember that our stay here has brought us laughter, tears, and above all, friends.*

The theme of "time," although first believed to be quite easy, became an immediate challenge. One thing that the staff knew for certain was that it was "time" for a change. We wanted Lycoming to "move with the times" to a bigger, more collegiate sized book.

A considerable amount of time, effort and dedication went into this yearbook. Our art editor, Melina Scherer, designed the cover of the 1989 ARROW. Section editors Sandy Ward, Felisha Elmore and Jennifer Behun worked extremely long hours on the Senior, Faculty & Administration, and Organizations Sections respectively. Of course a yearbook would not exist without our photographers Kurt Weirich and Karen Hecht. On the financial aspect, Debbie Clinton managed the money while Rob Maietta was our primary ad salesman. During the Fall semester, the Sales Seminar class was asked to sell ads for our book. We would like to especially thank Brian Janet and Todd Smith for their efforts.

A special thanks goes out to Lou Palazzo, our Herff Jones representative whose constant advice made this book possible. Lastly, to Sue Beidler, our advisor, for without her sound advice and hard work, we would never have gotten this book off of the ground.

The staff wishes to take the time to thank the following people for their photo donations: Mr. Bill Byham for sports teams pictures, Dean Michael O'Brien for intramurals, Dean Patti Burger for student activities photos, and Dr. Robert Falk for theatre pictures. Senior portraits, faculty/administration and graduation pictures were taken by Davor Photo, Inc., Bensalem, PA.
